Legal implications: An interim polling district review (in addition to the statutory 5 year review) can only be instigated by a majority decision at full council (as per the advice of the Electoral Commission). The review process usually takes about 3 months and a public consultation is required. Risk implications: Staffing/time required to undertake a review would reduce the time available to work on the canvass for the

new register. The new register is required to be published on 1st December. Resource limitations may also impact on the quality of a review at the present time. If the review was finished after 1st December, it would require the register to be re-published (as this must be done following changes to boundaries).

Resource implications:

Additional officer support time would be required from Elections, Legal, Committee and Member Services, Communications and IT teams in supporting the review process and in the publication/ production of maps of polling district boundaries and in updating the LLPG.

Cost implications:

Some of the consultation review documents must be published in paper format for which there will be cost implications.

Notice received on behalf of the Head of the Paid Service and entered in the book open to Public Inspection
